SUES FOR $5,000 DAMAGES

MRS. LIZZIE SUMMERROW ASKS THAT AMOUNT.

The case on trial in the Mecklenburg Court in which D. H. Baruch is sued because of the rashness of an employee in charging a woman with stealing lace.

Charlotte Observer.

The case of B. J. and Lizzie L. Summerrow against Herman and D. H. Baruch came up for trial in the Superior Court yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The substance of the complaint made by the plaintiffs, Mr. and Mrs. Summerrow is that Mrs. Summerrow went into Baruch's store on the 4th day of December, 1899, while a fire sale was in progress; that when she was examining some embroidery with a view to having it priced a clerk or an employee—his name being unknown to her—assaulted her by touching her on the arm, forbade her to move from her position, accused her of attempting to steal the lace and made her expose the contents of the other bundles which she carried in her arms, and all of this was done to Mrs. Summerrow's "shame, mortification and humiliation." It is alleged that by reason of such "unlawful, unjustifiable, unwarrantable and malicious conduct on the part of the defendant's employee" . . . Mrs. Summerrow "became sick and nervous and was compelled to take her bed and remain there for many days . . . and has suffered, and still suffers, great mental pain and distress." Wherefore she asks $5,000 damages and the costs of the action.

It will be admitted by the defense that Mr. Samuel [Freidheim, of Rock Hill, S. C., was the employee who accosted Mrs. Summerrow.

Material sections of the answer to the complaint are as follows.

"The defendant, D. H. Baruch, answers the complaint filed in this action and says . . . that her co-defendant, Herman Baruch, was merely the manager of the dry goods store mentioned in the section of the complaint; . . . that if an employee in said store rudely and unlawfully assaulted the feme plaintiff in utter and reckless disregard of her rights, and in the presence of a large number of persons then and the assembled, or in any other way committed a wrong against the feme plaintiff, such employee was acting outside the scope of his or her authority, and, in doing so, was not the agent of this defendant and she denies her liability for such acts, if they were committed."

Representing the plaintiffs are Mr. James A. Bell and Jones & Tillett, while Burwell, Walker and Canisler and F. I. Osborne, Esq., appear for the defense.

Mrs. Summerrow Testifies.

Mrs. Summerrow was the first witness introduced. Questioned by Mr. James A. Bell she said she was one of the plaintiffs in the case and had been living in Charlotte about three years.

On December 4th, 1899, she went to Baruch's store during a special sale that was being conducted in the store at that time. She was accompanied by Mrs. Barnwell. The store was crowded. They passed between two dress goods and the embroidery counters and she stopped at the embroidery counter. She turned around to look at or examine a piece of dress goods for Mrs. Barnwell and as she did so she transferred from one hand to the other the piece of lace that she had been examining. As she did this someone touched her on the shoulder, threw back her cape and said: "What have you got there?"

"I answered that it was some lace that I wanted to price," said the witness.

"The man said, 'Well, you would have made a pretty good haul if you had got that lace. You will bear watching, madam. You stay here till I call Mr. Baruch.' Then he said: 'What have you got in the other hand?' 'I told him that I didn't intend to haul anything. I told him that it was none of his business what I had in the other hand.'"

The witness explained that the bundle contained her children's shoes, which she had been having mended, and continued:

"The man called Mr. Baruch, who came up and said: 'Oh, I know this

CAROLINA FAIR.

Meeting of Stockholders and the Election of Officers.

The stockholders of the Central Carolina Fair met last night in the Greensboro National Bank for the purpose of electing officers and transacting other business. The meeting was the occasion of the greatest enthusiasm in behalf of the fair. It was determined that the next fair, in October, should be the greatest thing of the kind ever held in this section. It was decided to build two new structures, one for a machinery hall and the other for the poultry exhibit. The following officers were elected:

J. Van Lindley, President; W. H. Osborne, First Vice-President; Caesar Cone, Second Vice-President; J. S. Carr, Durham, Third Vice-President; R. S. Petty, Secretary; F. N. Taylor, Assistant Secretary; Neil Ellington, Treasurer.

Vice-Presidents are ex-officio members of the Executive Committee.

Board of Directors.

Dr. J. T. J. Battle, Greensboro; C. M. Vanstony, Greensboro; John A. Young, Guilford county; W. C. Boren, Greensboro; R. M. Rees, Greensboro; W. C. Tucker, Greensboro.

Executive Committee.

R. M. Rees, Greensboro, F. N. Taylor, Greensboro; W. E. Beville, Guilford county; J. E. Tomlinson, Guilford county; C. P. Vanstony, Greensboro; E. E. Bain, Greensboro.

The Presidents, Vice-Presidents, Secretary and Assistant Secretary and Treasurer are ex-officio members of the Executive Committee.

Committee to Solicit Stock.

W. E. Beville, G. H. McKinney, S. L. Gilmer, W. F. Clegg, C. M. Vanstony, W. C. Tucker, G. Daniel.

Free Concert.

The Proximity band, after playing for the ladies of St. Barnabas church at their oyster supper last night, came to the court house square and there rendered several selections. This band has made marked progress, and plays excellent music.

THE UNCARED-FOR INSANE.

A Committee Named for the Purpose of Investigation.

News and Observer.

The number of insane persons in North Carolina for whom admission into asylums is desired must be ascertained as nearly as possible. That was the decision of the joint legislative committees on insane asylums last night, and a sub-committee composed of Senators Speight and Alexander and Representatives Page, Murphey and Ross were appointed to make the investigation and report to the full committee.

This joint committee last night heard Dr. Murphy on the needs of the western hospital. He read his report to the trustees, to the committee and told of the urgent pleas for admission to the hospital. He was questioned by the committee and in reply to one question, he endorsed the plan of keeping the criminal or dangerous insane at a separate place from the State hospitals. Upon conclusion of his remarks the sub-committee above mentioned was appointed to procure necessary data for the committee to work on.

The full committee will hear from Dr. Kirby and Dr. Miller next on the requirements of the Central and Eastern hospitals respectively. The Western hospital reports a deficit of $20,000; the Central of $10,000 and the Eastern has a balance left of $696. The appropriations now asked by the hospitals are as follows:

Western Hospital.
Special appropriation.....	$ 150,000
Maintenance per year.....	125,000
Total	$ 275,000
Central Hospital.
Special appropriation.....	$ 125,000
Maintenance per year.....	71,250
Total	$ 196,250
Eastern Hospital.
Special appropriation.....	$ 50,000
Maintenance for 1901.....	45,000
Total	$ 95,000
Total of special appropriations for the two years and maintenance for this year, $466,250.

THE QUEEN'S WILL OPENED.

DIVIDES HER PRIVATE ESTATE AMONG HER CHILDREN.

The Prince of Wales' Deeds, which are enormous, to be paid—The Body Lying in the Dining Room at Osborne House.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Cowes, Jan. 25.—The Queen's will has been opened. Her wishes regarding the funeral have been ascertained and will be carried out to the letter. This will be all the information that will be made known. Her private fortune and the disposition of it will be kept a state secret. Princess Beatrice will be the principal beneficiary.

It is reported that the will provides for the payment of the debts of the Prince of Wales, which are believed to amount to a million or more pounds. The will was read to the King and other members of the Royal family. Princess Beatrice gets Osborne House and a considerable share of the estate. The Duke of Connaught gets Balmoral Castle and Scottish estates.

The Body in the Dining Room.

Cowes, Jan. 25.—The Queen's body was placed in the coffin at ten this morning and brought into the dining room at Osborne House, which has been converted into a temporary chapel. It is officially stated that the public will not be permitted to view the body. It will be removed from Osborne House and placed on the royal yacht Alberta, and on Saturday morning be carried on the train to Victoria station and thence to Paddington. The route will be the same as that recently taken by Earle Roberts when proceeding to Paddington station from Buckingham Palace.

Besides the huge English fleet which will assemble at Spit Head to escort the body of the Queen across, the naval display will include a German squadron under the command of Prince Henry, of Prussia, brother of the Emperor. The navies of France and Russia and other countries will be represented.

Millionaire Rice's Will.

By Wire to The Telegram.

New York, Jan. 25.—The contest over the will of Millionaire William M. Rice is on in earnest today. Surrogate Fitzgerald is hearing argument on the motion for the appointment of an administrator for the estate in order that it may be protected.

The Hibernia Aground

By Wire to The Telegram.

London, Jan. 25.—The Allen liner, Hibernia, which left Boston January 11, for Glasgow is aground near Clyde, but not in a dangerous position.

Gun Kills Four.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Rome, Jan. 25.—The explosion of a gun aboard the Italian warship Terribile today killed four men and injured four others.

A Bad Instrument.

When the police raided the place of the negro Berry Sunday and found so many stolen goods, they also found the instrument with which he broke into houses. It is a long iron spike, three-fourths of an inch in diameter and eighteen inches long, very sharp at one end. It was one of several used by a street surveyor some time ago to drive into the ground to mark his lines. This morning Policeman Jordan took the instrument and went to several stores that had been entered or upon which attempts had been made, and compared the spike with the marks left on the windows that had been opened. It fitted several of the places exactly.

Railroad Building.

It is reported in railway circles today that the Southern will shortly build a line from Leaksville to Madison, and will substitute a broad gauge track for the narrow gauge now used between Cascade Junction and Martinsville, Va., over what is known as the Danville & Western railroad. This will enable the Southern to touch the Norfolk & Western at two points, Madison and Martinsville.

The Aldermen Tonight.

The aldermen will meet tonight and the most interesting question they have to consider is the granting of license to the bar men. It is not likely that the application for license will be granted tonight, because the charter of the city has not yet been amended as contemplated for the purpose of raising the license tax to $1,000.

While the aldermen are in session the ladies of the W. C. T. U. will be praying, as appears from a notice of their prayer meeting published elsewhere.

Buys Property.

Mr. J. C. Hardin yesterday purchased from Mr. Ben E. Sergeant the house and lot on Church street adjoining the homes of W. F. Bogart and Mr. Royal Farrar. It is valuable property. Mr. Hardin will at once remodel the house already on the ground and will build others, in the near future. The price paid was $2,600.

INDIAN TROUBLE GROWING.

Six Hundred Creeks Preparing to Attack Bristow—The Snakes Threatening.

Muscogee, I. T., Jan. 24.—The Creek uprising is growing to dangerous proportions. Marshall Bennett has just received a telegram from Bristow, I. T., announcing that 600 armed Creeks, stationed two miles from there, are preparing to attack the town, and pleading for protection from the marshal. Marshal Bennett and Agent Shoenfelt are swearing in large numbers of deputies, whom they are forwarding to the scene of the trouble. It is now feared that they will reach the town too late, and the mayor of Bristow has been instructed to swear in all the men necessary to protect the town. Soldiers are being hurried from Fort Reno to the seat of the trouble, but they will not reach Bristow before tomorrow night as they will arrive at Henrietta first and go overland.

Indian Agent Shoenfelt will ask for more help, as it is found that one company of cavalry cannot handle the situation for the Indians are dividing up into bands of 100. Marshal Bennett, with six deputies, is about to leave for Eufala, where Crazy Snake was seen today, and will attempt his capture. The Snake band is within three miles of Bristow and is reported to have whipped two white men. The Dawes commission is fearful for the safety of its party of appraisers headed by Representative Hackbust, of Leavenworth Kan., who are in the Wetumpka district. Nothing has been heard from them for two days.

Snakes Threatening.

South McAlistier, I. T., Jan. 24.—The disaffected Choctaws have a number of Creek Snakes among them and they have been quietly organizing and arming for some time. They call themselves the Choctaw Snakes. It is stated that the Snakes have planned to destroy all the railroads in their nation by burning bridges and section houses on a preconcerted night. They have deposed Governor Duke and issued an order to all citizens to cease leasing or renting to whites. The first offence they will punish with 50 lashes, they say; ears will be cut off for the second, and death for the third. They have organized and have leaders in every Choctaw county and claim to have a membership of 2,600. United States Marshal Grady has sent the leaders word that arrests will follow the first violation of the law. There will be a meeting of the full bloods Saturday.

Military Preparations.

Wichita, Kan., Jan. 24.—Governor Barnes has asked Colonel Hoffman to come to Guthrie to be ready to take charge of the militia that may be ordered to Chandler, Stroud and other towns bordering on the Indian Territory, before morning. The various border towns report that the Choctaw and Creek uprisings are very serious.

Mrs. Faircloth Dissents.

Charity and Children.

We see it stated that Mrs. W. T. Faircloth has filed a notice dissenting from the provisions of the will of her late husband. If you know anything at all you know as much about what that means as we do.

BILL TO REGISTER ALL VOTERS

M'NEIL, CONTESTING THE SEAT OF GREENE, GETS SNOWED UNDER.

Two Republicans and Two Populists Voted With the Democrats—Big Fight Over Bill Allowing Alimony.

Special dispatch to the Telegram.

Raleigh, Jan. 25.—The libel law bill for the protection of newspapers passed second reading in the Senate today.

The bill establishing a graded school at Guilford College passed second reading in the Senate.

The bill providing that only practical farmers shall serve on the Board of Agriculture was discussed in a lively fashion, after which it was referred to the committee.

There was a long debate on the Henderson bill to allow alimony even in cases of absolute divorce. The discussion will be resumed Tuesday.

In the House.

Bills were introduced in the House to allow Pilot Mountain to vote on license; to provide for a permanent registration for all persons entitled to vote under section four of the constitution.

The bill allowing companies with over a million capital to be chartered, passed.

The election committee in the case of McNeil against Green, of Wilkes, unanimously reported in favor of Green, the Democratic nominee. It was shown that there was no evidence supporting McNeil's claim to the seat. The report of the committee was adopted, 86 to 12, two Republicans and two Populists voting with the Democrats.

AN EDITOR DEPORTED.

George Rice Coming Back to the United States Under Military Orders—Declared to be a Dangerous Man.

Manila, Jan. 24.—General MacArthur has ordered the deportation to the United States of George T. Rice, editor of The Daily Bulletin, a marine journal. Rice will sail on the Pennsylvania next Monday. The order characterizes him as a dangerous incendiary and a menace to the military situation. Rice's offense was the publication of allegations that Lieutenant Commander Wm. Brauer, captain of the port, had charged excessive pilotage and moorage fees, a percentage of which he had kept for himself.

The report of Major Mills, inspector general, who investigated the allegations, completely exonerated the captain of the port and indicted the editor and the merchants who had given him information and who had been misled by figuring the rates upon the net, instead of the gross tonnage, the latter specified under the Spanish law.

Rice was summoned to the governor general's military secretary and called upon to promise that he would publish no more such articles. He declined to give such a pledge, but insisted that the article was truthful and took up a defiant attitude when threatened with deportation. The deportation order was then issued and Rice is now awaiting the departure of the Pennsylvania. When seen in jail today he reiterated his statement that the charges were true, and declared that in any event, the severity of the sentence was unwarranted. Rice came originally from Red Wing, Minn., and was formerly a member of the Minnesota volunteers.

Many Thanks.

The ladies of St. Barnabas church wish, through the columns of their ever faithful allies, the city papers, to thank their friends and patrons for the generous and hearty response to their appeals, which culminated in the realization of a handsome sum of money last evening. Miss Cornie Callum and Miss Nettie Sloan were the young ladies who won the "American Beauties" last evening, to whom they were presented by the Hon. A. M. Scales in his happiest style.

DANCED WITH THE QUEEN.

A Quaker the Only American Who Ever Enjoyed That Distinction.

Philadelphia Press.

"Richard, I am told thee has been dancing with the Queen. I do hope, my son, thee will not marry out of meeting."

The good, old-fashioned Quaker simplicity and distrust of royalty were never better exhibited than in these words of the mother of the late Richard Vaux. They were her first greeting to him on his return from the Court of St. James, after his memorable exploit at the Court ball in Buckingham Palace, where he enjoyed the distinction of being the only American who ever danced with Queen Victoria.

It was in 1837, Mr. Vaux's position as secretary to Mr. Stevenson, United States Minister to the Court of St. James was in itself a noteworthy one, and brought him at once into social prominence in London, but his exceptional personal attributes, his brilliancy of conversation, charm of person, exquisite manners, elegance of diction and gallantry of carriage, made him the beau ideal of a court cavalier, and welcome guest in the houses of the nobility, where he was welcomed and received with open arms. No one, therefore, was greatly surprised in court circles when it became known that the young Queen had singled him out for a signal honor, and had commanded that he attend the Court ball at Buckingham Palace, which was to be given in honor of her coronation.

When, however, the night of the ball arrived and the "Queen's cotillion" set was formed and the guests beheld Richard Vaux, arrayed in his brilliant court costume, take a place in it, a position that was supposed to be reserved for royalty alone, there was surprise and excitement indeed. Then the music struck up and the gallant young American threaded his way through the intricacies of the royal dance, bearing himself with an air of grace and confidence that was wonderful to behold. The Queen was seen to smile with gracious approval as he took her hand and led her through the evolutions of the dance. And there was not a man present who would not have given a coronet to win so coveted a distinction.

After that Mr. Vaux's career was a series of brilliant social triumphs. In his candidacy for Congress in 1890, certain voters in his district resented his having danced with the Queen of England, and used the fact against him as a reflection on his Democracy.

The Raney Library Opened.

Raleigh Post.

The beautiful and superbly-equipped Raney Library building, erected and presented to the people of Raleigh, at a cost of more than forty thousand dollars, by Mr. R. B. Raney, as a memorial to his deceased wife, Olivia Cowper Raney, is now open to the public, having been formally opened, dedicated and presented to the city with beautiful and especially appropriate ceremony last night.

The exercises were held in the well-appointed and beautifully-decorated Music Hall of the Library building, in the presence of a large and representative audience, the large attendance, despite the very inclement weather, being an earnest of the deep and very general interest in and appreciation for Mr. Raney's magnificent gift.

THE QUEEN'S DESCENT, HER GIRLHOOD & HER LOVE-STORY.

New York Sun.

Her Most Excellent Majesty Alexandra Victoria, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and of the Colonies and Dependencies thereof in Europe, Asia, Africa, America and Australasia, Queen, Defender of the Faith, Empress of India—this was the official title of the woman who has just died at the age of nearly 82 years, after a reign without parallel in the history of her nation, either for length or for glory.

It is 834 years since William the Conqueror crossed the Channel to found the British nation. In these eight centuries the length and sonority of the title of the rulers of that nation have grown with the years, while the actual power of the sovereign has steadily decreased. Time was when the history of the ruler of Great Britain was the history of the kingdom. It would be hard indeed to show where the history of the nation would have been changed during the reign of Queen Victoria by any difference her action from that which was actually taken by her. Her life has been an example for her people, and for all the world. She has filled out the wish expressed for her by Tennyson, in ending his consolatory lines on the death of the Prince Consort:

May all love,
His love unseen, but felt, o'ershadow
Thee,
The love of all thy sons encompass
Thee,
The love of all thy daughters cherish
Thee,
The love of all thy people comfort
Thee,
Till God's love set thee at his side
Again.

Four families have furnished the sovereigns of England since the Conquest, the Plantagenets, the Tudors, the Stuarts and the Guelphs. Queen Victoria was lineally descended from all of these families, though the descent must in some of the lines be traced very indirectly. Her descent from Alfred the Great and from Charlemagne has also been traced.

The Guelphs attained title to the throne through the marriage of Ernest Augustus, Elector of Hanover, to Sophia, the daughter of Elizabeth, the youngest child of James I. When the Stuarts had been set aside and a Protestant line was sought for to replace them the Guelphs were selected. George I., the son of Sophia and the Elector of Hanover, was the first of the line. The others until Victoria were George II., George III., George IV. and William IV. George III. had fifteen children. The one of them who caused him the least grief in his old age was Edward, Duke of Kent, who was married in 1818 to the Princess of Saxe-Coburg. He died in 1820 leaving a daughter, Alexandrina Victoria, less than a year old. On the death of William IV., without issue, this girl succeeded to the throne of Great Britain. She could not succeed to the throne of Hanover, which descended in the male line, and the kingdoms were there separated, her uncle, the Duke of Cumberland, becoming the King of Hanover.

Childhood and Girlhood.
When on May 24, 1819, a daughter was born to Edward, Duke of Kent and his wife, the Princess of Leiningen, in Old Kensington Palace, the event was not regarded as one of importance to the nation. Duke Edward was not popular in the court of George III. He was too quiet, too unsocial. His whole family was unpopular with the people because of its open hatred of English institutions and its roughness of life and manners. In him, the retiring disposition was considered as added evidence of his dislike for England and her people. He was therefore more unpopular than his brothers.

Edward, Duke of Kent, died when the little Princess was less than a year old. George III., his father, followed him quickly. George IV. had detested the Duke of Kent and did not look kindly upon his widow. If the mother of the Princess Alexandrina Victoria had followed her own impulses she would have gone back to Germany to bring up her child in the little principality from which she came. But her brother Leopold was wiser than she in the ways of the world. He advised her that the children of George III. were not of lasting stock, and that the little Princess might well be prepared by a life in England to become the Queen of the land. The widowed mother could not speak a word of English. Should her daughter be called to the throne from Leiningen without a trace of England in her bringing up, there would indeed be a prospect of unhappiness for her in her relations with her people. Prince Leopold himself superintended the education and the bringing up of the little Princess. He was far-sighted enough, too, to have a hand in the education of the boy Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg, to whom he intended that his ward should be married. The little girl's mother had a hard time of it. She was poor—as princesses are poor—and all but her brother were against her. But the girl received a sound education. She was trained to know the value of money to a degree that has not always been pleasing to her court. She was kept clear of the scandals which were in the air about her uncles and their friends. When she came to maturity there were no traces of the unhappy faults of the Guelph line in her character.

On the death of George IV. others began to see what Prince Leopold had seen long before. It was recognized that Victoria was close to the throne. William IV., who followed George IV., was without children and was so old that there was no hope that he would be blessed with issue. The Princess was the heir to the next son, Edward. She had not been told how close she was to the throne. It was part of her mother's and her uncle's plan that her training should not be complicated by hopes and dreams which might never be fulfilled. But on the death of George IV., when she was 12 years old, her governess slipped a genealogical table of the Guelph line between the leaves of one of her school books. The girl learned from a short study of the table that she was the next in succession. She looked up and met the eyes of the governess.

"I am nearer the throne than I thought," she said to the teacher. She paused. Her eyes filled with tears, and she said: "I will be good. I will be good."

Victoria was 17 years old when Prince Leopold determined that it was time for her to meet the young Prince Albert whom he had selected to be her consort. With his father, the Duke of Saxe-Coburg, the Prince was invited to visit Kensington. Each of the young people had been much talked to about the other. They fell in with Leopold's desires very easily and naturally. Prince Albert was an attractive young man.

Some years before the death of William IV., Parliament, realizing the exigencies of the situation, made a grant of £10,000 a year for the education of the Princess, and thus Kensington Palace became a much more comfortable place than it had been. William died on June 20, 1837, at 2 o'clock in the morning. At 5 o'clock Victoria, called from her bedroom, and attired in a wrapper thrown over her night robe, was told that she had succeeded to the throne. At 11 o'clock she received the Privy Council.

The first conspicuous episode in the progress of the new order of things was the marriage of the Queen and Prince Albert. The story of their true and happy love is one such as is seldom found in the records of royal unions. Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg visited England for the second time in October, 1839, and entered upon his suit for the hand of Queen Victoria. There could be no doubt of his success. Of all the eligible young men there was none so worthy as he. Within a week of his arrival he was accepted. It was necessary that the first word must come from the Queen. He was summoned to her private reception room. He found her alone. Mrs. Elphinstone suggested that the Queen's first glance must have been all the advance necessary for her to make. Her letter to King Leopold, her uncle, tells of her own happiness.

"These last few days have passed like a dream," she says, "and I am so much bewildered by it all that I hardly know how to write. But—I do feel very happy."

The story of the communication of the news to the Privy Council as it is written in the Queen's journal is another bit of evidence, where any needed, of the simplicity and sweetness of the emotion which the Queen was privileged to share as Queens seldom are, with the humblest maid in all her dominions.

"Precisely at 2 o'clock," she wrote in the journal. "I went in. The room was full, but I hardly knew who was there. Lord Melbourne I saw looking kindly at me with tears in his eyes, but he was not near me. I then read

P. BEASLEY, Editor and Manager

FRIDAY, JANUARY 25

COURT REFORM.

We have seen it stated that Judge Robinson has said that there would be no need of more Superior Courts if there were a way to limit the speeches of the lawyers. The Judge himself is not a lover of the lawyers. His Honor makes no effort to conceal his feelings when he is being bored by tedious speeches. Nevertheless he has said something, in this remark, which approaches very near the truth. The lawyers are allowed altogether too much latitude in the way of speech making.

Once upon a time a very learned lawyer was trying a case before a North Carolina justice of the peace who had more common sense than legal learning, and was not at all overawed by the counsel. After the latter had made one long and rather tiresome speech, he again got up to make some remarks. The magistrate's patience was exhausted and he took summary judgment upon the lawyer. "Here, now," he said, "You've made one speech, and I don't want to hear any more of your clasp, the court has done made up its mind."

There is not a doubt that there is other action needed beside the mere creation of additional courts.

The newspapers of this country could not have devoted more space to the death of a president than they did to the death of Victoria. In fact they filled all the space they had with accounts of the sad affair and much was doubtless left out.—Du-ham Herald.

The death of a President would not deserve so much space as that devoted to Queen Victoria. About the Queen there are the personal interests of a long life dear to her people, which a President in his short four or eight years does not approach.

The stock of the company for the purchase and operation of the Biblical Recorder has been taken and the ownership of the paper will pass to it from the hands of Edwards & Broughton, who purchased it at the death of the late Rev. C. T. Bailey. Mr. J. W. Bailey continues, of course, as editor, and we understand he is also a large shareholder. We are glad of any arrangement that keeps Mr. Bailey in North Carolina journalism.

The Creek Nation of Indians announces that they will govern themselves. If they do it will be better than the average community of Americans, which is governed by a boss.—Raleigh Times.

According to the consent of the governed which The Times, we believe, says should apply to the Tagals of Luzon, the contention of the Creeks ought to be granted at once.

We welcome to our table the exceedingly well gotten-up paper, just begun, the Rutherfordton Tribune. Mr. W. T. Rucker is the editor, and Mr. L. D. Miller the manager.

Let that city, which, like Raleigh, has an R. B. Raney, account itself most fortunate.

Dr. Curry's Magnificent Address.

Raleigh Post.

"Education is the paramount issue in North Carolina."

That was the theme of the magnificent address delivered by Dr. J. L. M. Curry, the agent of the Peabody Fund, before the members of the General Assembly yesterday.

The Legislature did Dr. Curry the honor to adjourn at noon in order to hear him speak on the subject of education. The address was delivered in the House of Representatives, where the members of the Legislature assembled. They heard him most attentively, as did the people in the crowded galleries and lobbies.

Dr. Curry is a scholarly speaker. It is a pleasure to hear him, whether you agree with him or not. He is a man of strong views, and he spoke boldly yesterday. Many of his utterances were enthusiastically applauded, while others were not. But every one present had nothing but praise for the address.

When the distinguished educator appeared in the House he was applauded. Judge Connor, the chairman of the joint Committee on Education, introduced Dr. Curry in appropriate words.

Town Libraries.

Charity and Children.

A good library and reading room in every small town in North Carolina would be a means of great good, we have no doubt, where it is properly managed. We are not speaking of the miserable "Book Clubs," so-called, which are too often only an excuse for drawing social lines among people, none of whom have money enough to be in what is known as "the 400," and the members of which have neither taste to enjoy nor capacity to comprehend a book, but a library containing strong, pure books, in cheap binding, if need be, and which is absolutely free to the public. A comfortable and cozy reading room with books, magazines and fresh newspapers would be an inviting place for a visitor to town to spend an hour, and likewise for those who may have leisure from their work. Everybody should be encouraged to enjoy the benefit of the reading room, and a little mud on a man's boots, or a hole in his hat, should not debar him from its privileges. It is astonishing at what small cost such an institution can be established. A few earnest spirits and twelve or fifteen dollars are sufficient to begin. Two or three weeks ago such a thing was undertaken in Thomasville and already there are between two and three hundred volumes in the library and newspapers galore. It promises to be a means of great good to the community and we commend it to our sister towns of 1000 and downward.

ENGLISH AND GERMAN REPORTEE

London Letter to the New York Press.

Emperor William of Germany has the most costly wardrobe of any man in Europe. He spends $4,000 a year on boots alone, and buys every pair of them of a London shoemaker. "Made in Germany" does not appear upon the War Lord's shoes.

"You ought to give your own country a chance," laughingly said the Prince of Wales to his imperial nephew during his last visit to England.

"Well," replied the Kaiser. "Germany certainly supports me in most things, but as regards boots, I always go in for English 'supporters.' English-made boots are so easy to walk in."

"Yes, I agree with you," said the Prince somewhat shyly, "and if there should be a revolution at any time in Germany English boots will enable you to travel speedily to the country in which they were made." This was in the nature of a "knock" for the Kaiser, who at times is likely to belittle the country which has invariably treated him so kindly.

The Kaiser also goes in strongly for English carpets, and all the royal palaces in Germany are "Kiddermistered" in almost every room. When the Duke of Cambridge was staying with the Kaiser, some months ago, he remarked upon this, and said: "We English ought to feel flattered, Your Majesty seeing that you think so highly of English manufactures. Well, English carpets can't be beaten anywhere, I am sure."

"Ah, Duke," replied the Emperor, laughing somewhat exultingly, "when ever I put my foot upon an English carpet I say to myself, Germany trampling on English trade!"

Close to where the Duke of Cambridge was standing rested a large easy chair upon which was placed a magnificent cushion and embroidered across it in silk were the words: "German Empire." Your Majesty," said the Duke very quietly, as he plumped himself down on the cushion, "you, as representing Germany, have just trampled under foot English trade. Allow me, as representing the Queen of England, to sit upon the 'German Empire.'"

WILD HOGS FOR MEAT

Packers Prospecting on Profit in Western Porkers.

Hordes of the Animals Found in Southwestern Arizona—Turtles of Immense Size Also Found in Large Numbers.

Representatives of meat packers in Kansas City and Chicago have been in southwestern Arizona of late investigating the advisability of establishing there a large packing house at the head of the Gulf of Mexico, where wild pork and turtles will be prepared for the market. Over vast stretches of territory along the southern part of the Colorado river wild hogs roam in herds, sometimes of great size. It is believed that the supply will be large enough to keep a large plant in constant operation for several years, at the same time riding the country of a pest and making room for the establishment of a big industry in the raising of the domestic hog in a locality peculiarly adapted for that purpose, says the New York Sun.

For about a quarter of a century wild hogs have been found in southwestern Arizona, and their number has been constantly increasing. The animal grows to large size, feeding almost entirely along the river on a root peculiar to the Colorado and grass resembling a species of alfalfa or Chilian clover. Of all the game in this part of the west there is none other which entails so much danger in the hunting. As a rule the hogs go in droves, and to attack one is to encourage a fierce onslaught from the others. Only on horseback is it safe to hunt the animals, and even then one must have a mount quick in action, as the hogs are incredibly swift and almost if not quite as fast as the average horse.

They are powerful brutes, with long, lean limbs and heavy, muscular joints attached to bodies which are more like the "razor backs" of the south than anything else. Equipped with long tusks, they can cut down a horse in a twinkling, and a man on foot stands no chance for his life in an attack from a herd. If one of a herd is killed the others seem to go wild with rage and will attack a party of almost any size. So dangerous is the practice of hunting them that only an occasional party ventures to try the sport.

Several weeks ago a party from Denver, here for the winter, went to Yuma, and from there went on a hog hunt. Accompanied by a Mexican guide, they came upon a herd of 20 quietly feeding in a marsh along the river bottom. Holding the dogs in check, they fired a volley into the herd, killing four and wounding another. Turning like lightning and following the lead of a great boar the remainder of the herd charged in the direction of the firing. The hunters rushed to where their horses were standing and all but one mounted and escaped. The man who was last to reach the horses was about to leap into the saddle when his mount broke her halter and dashed away. Dropping his rifle, the man climbed a small willow tree, getting out of reach just as the herd rushed up and tore at the small trunk in an effort to dislodge him. Perched on a limb he used his revolver with good effect, while the dogs worried the herd, and his friends, returning to the rescue, picked off the besiegers until only three or four were left. These hurried to the river bank, and, tumbling down the steep sides, disappeared in the brush. In three days the party killed nearly 100 hogs, and, smoking and drying the meat, sent it into Los Angeles.

There is a difference of opinion as to the origin of the Arizona wild hog. According to one theory, Thomas Blythe, more than 20 years ago, sought to establish a colony at the head of the gulf of California and one of the industries established was pig raising. A large number of thoroughbred hogs were procured, and when the colony failed the pigs were turned out. Fostered by the abundance of wild feed the herd grew and spread over a great expanse of river bottom, until now there are doubtless several hundred thousand scattered along the river.

Contrary to this belief the Indians say that the wild hog has been a native of this territory as far back as their traditions reach, but they say that the hogs have increased in size, a condition which brings out a theory that the Blythe hogs were probably crossed with the wild pigs which were there before they were turned out to shift for themselves. Wild hog meat is of a peculiarly fine flavor, that of the younger pigs being far superior to the pork from domestic swine.

The packing of turtles is intended to be an important part of the proposed industry. The turtles in the lower Colorado grow to immense size and their flesh is in great demand in California, whence many of them are sent east. Heretofore the freight rates have been a bar to the industry, it having been necessary to ship the turtles alive, thus sending along many parts which are not available for food and making the price of the good parts out of the reach of the average epicure. By packing only the useful parts of the turtle for shipment east the promoters of the plant believe that a profitable industry can be established.

In his affluence he has not forgotten the source of his wealth, and is a constant contributor to the funds of the church.

Responsibility of Riches.
No sovereign is so rich as the czar, and no sovereign has such heavy calls upon his purse. The grand dukes Michael, Vladimir, Alexis, Serge and Paul Alexandrovitch, as the sons of emperors of Russia, receive from the head of the house an annual sum of 185,000 roubles (£26,200) each, which, added to private means, makes them very rich. The wives and widows of Russian grand dukes receive 40,000 roubles each; their sons 150,000 roubles. It was the Czar Alexander III, who decreed that every member of the imperial family must spend a part of the year in Russia, or else lose a third of his or her allowance.

F. B. REID, Mgr.

We give gloss finish unless otherwise requested.

Col. A. L. Mills, superintendent of the military academy at West Point, has made his annual report to the adjutant general.

He devotes the greater part of his report to an earnest plea for the elevation of the standard of admission to West Point, to which end he suggests that the secretary of war be empowered to prescribe these requirements. He lays particular stress upon the fact that the entrance examinations at present correspond closely to the educational qualifications of pupils of the public schools just emerging from the primary grades. According to the commissioner of education, pupils of an average age of 14½ years in the public schools have these qualifications. Yet the average age of the applicant to West Point is above, and boys at that time of life should be equipped with high school education, including subjects which are not now a part of the entrance examination at West Point but which should be in the future. The superintendent says it would be in every way advantageous to have the relations between arithmetic and algebra and geometry made the same as now exists in the public schools. There is no desire that the entrance examinations should be made more difficult, but only that it should require what the public schools of the country supply.

AMERICAN COAL IN LEAD.

Col. W. P. Rend Says Countries of Europe Must Look to This Country for Future Supplies.

Col. W. P. Rend has returned to Chicago from a two months' visit to Europe, confident that the nations of the old world will have to look to this country more and more for their coal supplies, and with a firm belief that the great natural resources of this country are certain to give it a steadily increasing prominence in the markets of the world.

"There is no doubt that American coal is to be in steadily increasing demand in Europe," he said. "The demand is there now, and there is a ready market for every pound of our coal. The English coal fields are becoming so difficult and expensive to work that it is impossible for that country successfully to compete with our coal much longer. Prices of coal there have doubled within the last 18 months, and so alarmed have the English people become at this condition, which carries with it a most serious menace to their steel and iron manufacturers, that leading English papers are advocating an export tax on coal in order to prevent the exhaustion of the supply and to protect their iron and steel makers from the further encroachments of the American makers."

Creole Orange Custard.

Take the juice from six large oranges and place over a slow fire, adding sugar to taste. When the sugar is dissolved, remove from the fire, and when nearly cold, add the yolks of six eggs well beaten and a pint of milk which has previously been boiled. Again place on the fire, and stir until it thickens. To serve, place in glasses and add the whites of the eggs, which have been well beaten with sugar.

Dear Little Hands.

I.
Dear little hands, that only toiled for me—
Obeying Love's commands:
The thorns are cruel, but the rose will be Kind to you, little hands!

II.
I may not hold you to my heart, and know
Your touch in all Love's lands;
But sweet it is to dream I loved you so,
Dear, faithful little hands!
P. L. S., in Atlanta Constitution.

Mrs. Nation Still at It.

Enterprise, Kan., Jan. 24.—A street fight occurred here today, between women, led on one side by Mrs. Carrie Nation, the saloon wrecker, and on the other by Mrs. John Schilling, wife of the manager of the saloon wrecked yesterday. Mrs. Schilling was backed by a half dozen female friends.

Mrs. Nation later swore out warrants against Mrs. Schilling and her husband and Mrs. Wm. Bittner, charging them with assault, and Mayor Hoffman swore out a warrant against Mrs. Nation, charging her with disturbing the peace. All were arrested. They were taken before Judge Holt and released, all but Mrs. Nation being on bond. Mrs. Nation was found not guilty.

Alleged Kidnapping Case.

Atlanta, Jan. 24.—J. P. Patterson has asked the police to find his son, Alonzo Patterson, a 13-year-old boy, who disappeared from his home in this city last Thursday. Mr. Patterson believes that his boy has been kidnapped.

The family of Bass Frazier, who is believed to have been kidnapped two weeks ago from the Georgia Technological School, has given up hope of ever meeting him again. Frazier's brother, who left for his home in Alabama, today, has no idea that the $500 in gold, which he paid a negro who promised to restore the student to his family, will ever be recovered. The police are at work on both cases.

THE QUEEN'S DESCENT, ETC.

my short declaration. I felt that my hands shook, but I did not make one mistake. I felt most happy and thankful when it was over. Lord Landsdowne then rose, and in the name of the Privy Council asked that "this most gracious and most welcome communication might be printed." I then left the room, the whole thing not taking above two or three minutes. The Duke of Cambridge came into the small library where I was standing, and wished me joy.

They were married Feb. 10, 1840. Both were religious. Both were fond of art and literature and music. Aside from their public life there was a domestic side to their life which might well be the envy of many who had not to live so conspicuously. Under these happy circumstances it could not but be that added happiness should come to the Queen and her husband with the birth of their children. Victoria had strong and sensible ideas about the training of children. She sat down some of them in her journal.

"The greatest maxim of all," she writes, "is that the children should be brought up as simply and in as domestic a way as possible; that (not interfering with their lessons) they should be as much as possible with their parents, and learn to place their greatest confidence in them in all things.

"I am quite clear that she should be taught to have great reverence for God and for religion, but that she should have the feeling of devotion and love which our Heavenly Father encourages his earthly children to have for Him, and not one of fear and trembling; and that the thoughts of death and an after life should not be presented in an alarming and forbidding view, and that she should be made to know, as yet, no difference of creeds."

In the gardens of her palace at Osborne, except for Balmoral the one private place of the several splendid royal houses and the one under her complete control, there is a play garden set apart for the royal family. Here one may see the trees planted for each member of the family, the play houses with the many toys still preserved there, the miniature forts and other evidences of childish hands. There one may hear stories of how the children romped and played, of how their father and mother joined with them. And it must be that the Queen, wandering here in her widow's weeds with her heart saddened by the great sorrow and by other lesser but stinging sorrows, must have wept many a time for the departed joys of that life she has so simply told of in her journal.

The Prince Consort died suddenly on Dec. 14, 1861, at the age of 42 years. He had never been thought strong, but no one had dreamed that he was not able to resist so mild an attack of illness as that which caused his death. The Duchess of Kent, the Queen's mother, had died but a few months before. This sorrow the Queen had met with fortitude, which was strengthened by the sympathy of the Prince Consort. There was no consolation for the loss of her husband. There was no happiness for the Queen from that day comparable to the serene pleasure in life that had been hers for the twenty-one years of their life together. There came over her face then a settled melancholy which was never lifted from it. She then and there laid down as many of her social burdens as was possible, to be taken up by the Prince of Wales, who was married within the year.

Bright Future Ahead.

Chicago Post.

"But," protested the wise one, "have you enough to marry on?"
For a moment the lover was thoughtful.

"How much is the license?" he asked.

"Two dollars."

"And the wedding fee?"

"Oh, you can give anything you want, from $2 up."

"Then," said the lover, jubilantly, "there is nothing to make me hesitate. I have a $5 bill and 28 cents in change."

An All-pervading Growler.

Somerville (Mass.) Journal.

Mrs. Wiggles—Does your husband have a "den?"

Mrs. Waggles—No, he roars all over the house.

who is "not doing well"—the condition occurs now and then with all children.

Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil is a food that begins to build you up at once—of course, it don't show at once.

"Not doing well" means that the child is not getting the good of his food. Not today, or this week; it may have been going on for a month; before it begins to show in the child's condition.

The Oldest and Best.

S. S. S. is a combination of roots and herbs of great curative powers, and when taken into the circulation searches out and removes all manner of poisons from the blood, without the least shock or harm to the system. On the contrary, the general health begins to improve from the first dose, for S. S. S. is not only a blood purifier, but an excellent tonic, and strengthens and builds up the constitution while purging the blood of impurities. S. S. S. cures all diseases of a blood poison origin, Cancer, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Chronic Sores and Ulcers, Eczema, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, Herpes and similar troubles, and is an infallible cure and the only antidote for that most horrible disease, Contagious Blood Poison.

A record of nearly fifty years of successful cures is a record to be proud of. S. S. S. is more popular today than ever. It numbers its friends by the thousands. Our medical correspondence is larger than ever in the history of the medicine. Many write to thank us for the great good S. S. S. has done them, while others are seeking advice about their cases. All letters receive prompt and careful attention. Our physicians have made a life-long study of Blood and Skin Diseases, and better understand such cases than the ordinary practitioner who makes a specialty of no one disease.

We are doing great good to suffering humanity through our consulting department, and invite you to write us if you have any blood or skin trouble. We make no charge whatever for this service.

RHEUMATISM—CATARRH—DISEASES CURED BY B. B. B.

It is the deep-seated, obstinate cases of catarrh and rheumatism that B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures. It matters not what other treatments, doctors, sprays, liniments, medicated air blood purifiers, have failed to do, B. B. B. always promptly reaches the real cause and roots out and drives from the bones, joints, mucous membrane, and entire system the specific poison in the blood that causes rheumatism and catarrh. B. B. B. is the only remedy strong enough to do this and cure and so there can never be a return to the symptoms. Don't give up hope, but try B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) or 3 Bs.

For sale by druggists and Howard Gardner, in Greensboro, at $1 per large bottle, or 6 large bottles (full treatment) $5. To prove our faith in B. B. B. we will send a trial bottle free to sufferers, so they may test the remedy at our expense. Address Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

PREVENTED A TRAGEDY.

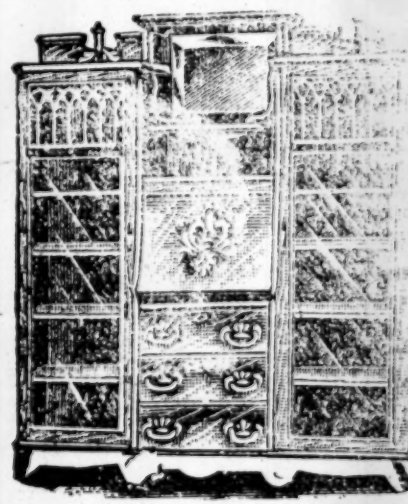

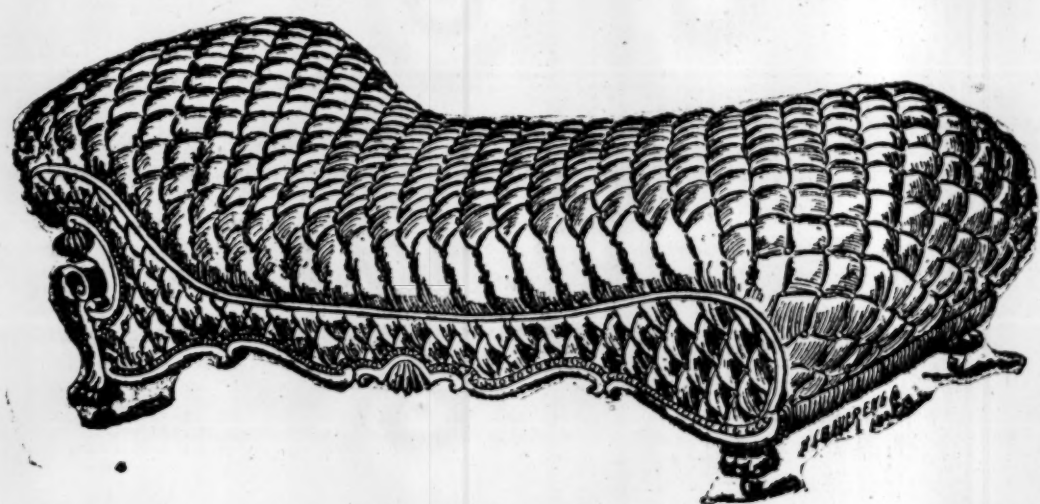

Timely information given Mrs. George Long, of New Straitsville, O., prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. A frightful cough had kept her awake every night. She tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle cured her, and she writes this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of the matchless merit of this grand remedy for curing all throat, chest and lung troubles. Only 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug store.

This season there is a large death rate among children from croup and lung troubles. Prompt action will save the little ones from these terrible diseases. We know of nothing so certain to give instant relief as One Minute Cough Cure. It can also be relied upon in grippe and all throat and lung troubles of adults. Pleasant to take. Howard Gardner.

STORY OF A SLAVE.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. Geo. D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle-working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run-down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by C. E. Holton, druggist.

When threatened by pneumonia or any other lung trouble, prompt relief is necessary, as it is dangerous to delay. We would suggest that One Minute Cough Cure be taken as soon as indications of having taken cold are noticed. It cures quickly and its early use prevents consumption. Howard Gardner.

Hot Buckwheat Cakes

AND
"Flap Jacks."

Mrs. Reese, representing "Hecker," will be at our store Friday and Saturday demonstrating the merits of "Hecker's" goods. We invite every Lady in town to come in and sample the goods and learn lessons in the art of cooking buckwheat cakes.

Respectfully,

J. W. Scott & Co

W. L. Wharton & Co.

CANNED GOODS

If we can't interest you in canned goods, it is because you cannot be interested:

Desert peaches at 35 cents and down to 15 cents, two for 25 cents
Pie peaches 10 cents, three for 25 cents.

Salmon at 20 and 25 cents that is second to none.

Try us on canned goods, and be convinced that we have the nicest line in town.

W. L. Wharton & Co.

ECONOMY IN BUSINESS

Is the corner stone of success. We economize, and give our customers the benefit. If it is an overcoat, a heavy suit or heavy underwear come to us and save money.

lady. She is all right. The man then said: "Mr. Baruch, you will have to get some one that knows these people to come here and watch."

"A lady then stepped up and said to Mr. Baruch: 'I am sure that this lady didn't intend to take anything.'"

"After the man had left me and Mr. Baruch had gone to the counter to price some goods for Mrs. Barnwell, I walked up to him and said: 'Mr. Baruch, what is the name of the man who spoke to me about the lace?' Mr. Baruch replied: 'Oh, that's all right; he is a traveling man I have to help me in the store.' Mr. Baruch did not give me the name."

Housekeepers' Day MONDAY

In order to introduce our own make of Sheets, Pillow Cases and Towels, we will on Monday make the following special prices:

"Gilmer's Special Round Thread" Sheets, 42 cents.

"Gilmer's Own Make" Sheets, 52c.

"Gilmer's Own Make, (Hem-stitched) 62 1/2 cents.

"Gilmer's Special Round Thread" Pillow Cases (Hemstitched) 13 cents Each.

"Gilmer's Own Make Round Thread" (Hemstitched) Pillow Cases, 15 cents.

"Gilmer's Exclusive" All Linen Huck Towels, 10 cents.

We have all of the above manufactured under our own brands. You can positively get the same goods nowhere else and they are worth 33 1-2 per cent. more than prices mentioned. Not more than two pairs sheets and cases and six towels sold to one customer.

THE WEATHER.

For North Carolina: Continued cold fair weather tonight and Saturday, brisk north west winds diminishing tonight.

LOCAL ITEMS.

The street sprinkler was a welcome visitor on South Elm street this afternoon.

Mr. W. R. Patterson is confined to his home on Walker avenue with the measles.

Matthews and Crawford have two new drays on the street today. They are handsome ones and were made by Mr. E. K. Huff.

The underground rod connecting the two gates at the Davis street crossing of the Southern Railway, broke last night, and the gates could not be used today.

The wind blew a gale last night, and this morning a number of fences were down. It blew so hard at first that people on South Elm street ran to the doors thinking that a hurricane had struck the place.

A "young" man of this city took his best girl out riding Wednesday afternoon, and when near Pomona his horse took fright at a passing train and ran away, throwing them both in the road. Fortunately neither he nor the young lady was hurt. Catching the horse, they continued their ride.

Suits Against the Southern.

The suit of Miss Etta Rayle against the Southern Railway was begun in the Superior court yesterday. The testimony was completed this morning and the lawyers are speaking this afternoon. Messrs. King & Kimball represent the Southern and Col. Jno. A. Barringer the plaintiff. Miss Rayle asks for $5,000 damages for injuries sustained while crossing the railroad at the depot more than a year ago.

Her brother, Mr. Albert Rayle, who was with her in the buggy at the time it was smashed by the train, also has a suit for $5,000 against the railroad. It will come up later. The parties now live in Winston.

Mr. Fariss' New Druggist.

Mr. A. L. Pearsall, of Clinton, has accepted a position at Mr. Fariss' drug store. He is a young man and comes highly recommended.

Notices of New Advertisements.

See Southern Loan and Trust Co's new ad in this issue if you are interested in real estate.

Housekeepers' day Monday at S. L. Gilmer & Co's.

Gardner's Almond Cream Lotion is the "proper stuff" to keep your hands, face and lips from chapping. See ad on page five—Gardner on the corner, opposite postoffice.

Hampton & Halthcock have a change of ad in today's Telegram, and mention something about cheap vehicles.

Harry-Bell Bros. Co. say that the cold wave has struck us. Do you know anything about it? Look for their new ad on page five, regular position.

John B. Fariss has a change today, in which he recommends cocoa-wine for exhaustion, no matter what the cause. Page four.

THE BARGAINS STILL ON.

The people who are fond of bargains are still flocking to the store of Johnson & Dorsett, where the closing sale of their elegant stock of dry goods continues every day. There are plenty yet on hand. It will take weeks yet to dispose of their very large stock. People are more pleased every day at the bargains they find there.
